7th INDIA ESSEN WELDING & CUTTING in Mumbai

Subsidiary Event of SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN in an Important Growth Market

In October, the international world of joining and cutting technologies will once more congregate at INDIA ESSEN WELDING & CUTTING. The foreign offshoot of the premier global fair SCHWEISSEN & SCHNEIDEN is the sector's leading event for the South Asian region. From October 5 to 7, it will take place in the Bombay Convention & Exhibition Centre in Mumbai, India's most important industrial metropolis. In 2016, too, the Tube India, Metallurgy India and Wire & Cable India fairs with related subjects will again run parallel to INDIA ESSEN WELDING & CUTTING. Exhibitors and trade visitors will thus profit from numerous synergetic effects.

With the seventh INDIA ESSEN WELDING & CUTTING, Messe Essen will, together with its partner Messe Düsseldorf India as well as the ideal sponsor the German Welding Society (DVS), offer the perfect outline conditions for a successful trade fair in one of the most dynamic growth markets in the world. Studies are assuming that the Earth's most populous country after China with 1.2 billion inhabitants will earn the third-highest gross domestic product worldwide by the middle of this century. At present, large infrastructure projects are on the agenda in India; substantial investments are being planned precisely in the fields of ports, air traffic and railways, too. That is promising a great market potential for services and products relating to joining technology.

Trade Fair is Becoming Increasingly Popular

Around 150 exhibitors from 14 nations will present themselves at INDIA ESSEN WELDING & CUTTING 2016. In 2014, the quartet of fairs attracted a total of over 10,600 decision makers from international companies. This record might be broken in 2016.
